

RIDING THE CIRCUIT A METHODIST CONFERENCE

By Thos. M. Elliott

The sad death Saturday of Rev. Sherman R. England, while conference is in session, brings to mind how frequently in recent years there have occurred deaths during conference week of some preacher or member of some preacher's family. During the last 14 sessions of the conference such has been the case. Last year the first wife of Rev. H. C. Christian, of Augusta, passed away during conference week. Dr. J. B. Robins died during the Elberton conference in 1913; Dr. W. P. Lovejoy died the following year, when the conference met at Marietta. Rev. R. L. C. Wailles died in 1915, while the session was at Rome, and Rev. L. P. Winter died the following year, as the conference was assembling at Griffin. During the LaGrange conference, in 1917, Rev. J. S. L. Sappington passed away, and Rev. W. J. Caldwell died during the Atlanta 1918 session. Again, in 1919, when the conference met in Atlanta, Rev. J. A. Brooks, a retired minister, answered the last call. During the week of the 1920 conference, here in Atlanta, while Dr. Walter Anthony was pastor of St. Mark church, his little daughter died. Just as the 1921 conference session adjourned, Rev. H. J. Ellis passed away, and then Rev. C. C. Carey followed the following year, as his conference came to a close. Rev. J. M. Fowler answered the last call in 1922, while conference was in session. Then, in 1924, Rev. A. E. Sansburn was killed just a few days before conference, and, in 1926, here in Atlanta, Rev. J. A. Sprayberry was killed. It might be noted, also, that Bishop Alpheus W. Wilson died, in 1916, just as the conference was gathering at Griffin. The further note should be taken that two notable presiding elders of the conference died just a short time before conference met, Dr. J. H. Eakes, of the Griffin district, in 1926, and Dr. W. L. Pierce, of the North Atlanta district, in 1928.

During the conference session, Rev. W. S. Gaines, of Grantville, a superannuated minister, sustained painful injuries when he slipped and fell in a bathtub at a local hotel. It was at first thought that he had broken two ribs, but this was found untrue. Confined to his room for two or three days, Mr. Gaines made a good recovery and will be able to return home upon the adjournment of conference today.

Dr. John C. White, of Atlanta, husband of Mrs. J. C. White, a lay member of the conference from the South Atlanta district for the seventh consecutive time and district secretary of the Woman's Missionary Society, did a beautiful and generous deed when he gave to the Churches' Homes for Girls a house and lot on Shadydale avenue, in Atlanta, and four additional lots adjoining the property, to be used as a place where girls may recuperate and rest, when too ill to work, or to build up their health after illness in hospitals. The property has been given the name, "The Georgia White Home," in honor of Mrs. White. This gift of Dr. White's makes the sixth home for girls maintained by the people of Atlanta churches.

Those presiding elders on Sunday were surely 12 popular gentlemen, if we may judge from the efforts made by numerous and sundry preachers and laymen to get them to one side and hold short confabs with them. Many of the preachers were anxious to know something of what was happening about their appointments, and many laymen wanted to know something of who their preacher would be. So, since the elders were the only ones they could reach, the preachers and laymen were engaging in the effort to reach them. Mighty little information was forthcoming, however. And, as a result, many today are on the anxious seat, way up front at that.

Jabesh Gilead, the delegate-at-large from the rural district, thinks the weather man pulled off a rotten deal on these Methodists in the brand of weather he dished out for conference week. Jabesh says it's a fact that honest-to-goodness Methodists believe in sprinkling, but that they do not believe that mode of baptism or any other mode. So, he says, the weather man rubbed it in on the Methodists, when he continued to sprinkle them every hour or so and sometimes all day during the conference week. Jabesh says a little sprinkling is the proper thing, but that too much is more than a sufficiency.

Uncle Jabe came up to the writer of these paragraphs Sunday and had the following to say: "Look here, son, I like that method of making appointments by lot, that you wrote about in Sunday's Constitution. Looks like a good thing to me. In that plan nobody knows what's what, and nobody knows whether anything is fixed. That lot-drawing plan puts every mother's son of the preachers on the same level, and they all look alike. And, too, it puts all the churches on the same level. The high-steeped church can't frown on the little backwoods church, nor the big town on the little town. It's fair for one as it is for the other, and looks like everybody would be willing to anything that's fair for all. Of course, some of the big fellows might be sent to the little places, and some of the little fellows to the big places; but it would even up things in the long run, and everybody would get with the same kind of grub. Some of the big places for the little fellows, and some of the big fellows need the little places. It wouldn't wreck things to try it out and see who yelps."

Rev. N. A. Parsons, one of the conference members dying this year, and to whose memory a tribute was paid

Sunday afternoon, was a preacher of the heroic type. At the date of his death last April he was 74 years old, and had been preaching 33 years, of which 35 years were as a supply preacher, never receiving a salary more than $1,200, and most of the time not that much. When he died he didn't owe a cent, had some little money saved, owned a little home, and had reared a family of nine children. His ambition was to become a regular member of the conference, and so at the age of 70, he asked to be admitted on trial. He was surely a happy and proud spirit when he was admitted into full connection a year ago. He lived to serve as a full-fledged Methodist itinerant for six months before he passed on to his eternal reward. Brother Parsons once told us of a meeting he held near Cartersville, in a community where nearly everybody was connected with the Baptist denomination. In the meeting 16 persons were converted. Brother Parsons said every last one of them joined a Baptist church.

Here's a piece of news that ought to make Old Man People and his children sit up and take notice. The writer Saturday night received a letter from a good lady at Jersey, Ga., in which she has this to say: "We just want you to know how eagerly each year we look forward to your writings in The Constitution during conference week, and how thoroughly we do enjoy them." Thanks, dear lady, for them kind words; but please excuse our blunders. Movie stars are not the only ones to get fan mail.

A new organization to be connected with the conference personnel next year will be known as "The Baldhead Club." Nominations for president, vice president, secretary, treasurer, and board of directors may be mailed to this writer.

Dr. J. W. C. Watkins, an honored superannuated minister of this conference, 84 years of age, has been serving as chaplain in the state senate for 36 years. Judge Garland Watkins, of the juvenile court, is his son.

Here is a law passed by the Baltimore general conference in 1922 that is not in force today: "Presiding elders shall receive as their salaries whatever of surplus there may be left after pastors' salaries are paid in full." No, my dear child, that law is not in force at this time.

Dr. C. C. Jarrell, as secretary of the general church board, says the North Georgia annual conference looks like the general conference, and North Georgia district conferences look like annual conferences.

The eighth annual conference of American Methodism was held in 1780. During that annual conference the following resolution was adopted: "All Methodist preachers shall arise at 4 o'clock in the morning, and not later than 5 o'clock under any circumstances." That's another law, my dear child, that is not in force today, thank the stars!

In the annual conference minutes of American Methodists for the year 1785 appear the first memorial sketches ever to be printed in memory of deceased preachers. Caleb B. Peckford and George May were the first men ever to have memorial sketches printed. There were 23 words in the sketch of Peckford, and 15 for May.

Bishop Francis Asbury was the only Methodist bishop ever to be ordained three times during one conference session. This occurred during the 13th annual conference of American Methodism, which was the first general conference in America, in 1784.

The following named men have had their names on the conference roll for more than 50 years: W. T. Bell, Warren A. Candler, H. C. Christian, W. R. Brannan, J. E. England, E. A. Gray, T. R. Kendall, Sr., J. R. King,

W. H. LaPrade, Sr., J. H. Mashburn, N. E. McBreyer, A. W. Quillian, H. M. Quillian, K. Head, J. T. Richardson, W. H. Speer, G. W. Thomas, O. A. Throver, J. W. G. Watkins, M. L. Underwood and E. H. Wood.

Three newspapermen were members of this conference session as lay delegates. Colonel P. T. McCutcheon, of Franklin, was sent from the LaGrange district; E. P. Hall, from the Dalton district; and Louis L. Morris, from the Elberton district. Each of them is an active editor, as well as a leading spirit in his own community. Mr. Morris is a friend for buttermilk, so we are advised. He says the regular drinking of buttermilk will sweeten the disposition, invigorate the body and clarify the mental powers. Rev. C. M. Verdel, of Duluth, is our buttermilk advocate among the preachers. He and Mr. Morris might make millions in a dairy business.

It was reported that, in 1928, there were 492 Southern Methodist preachers who failed to report a single conversion during the year. That is 7 per cent of the total number of preachers, more than 1 out of 14. The Florida conference had 50 such charges, the largest number, while the upper South Carolina conference had 1, the smallest number. The North Georgia conference had 14, and the South Georgia 9.

In 1867 when the North Georgia conference held its session with the First Methodist church, the first one after dividing the Georgia conference, there were 13 charges in the Atlanta district, reaching as far as Monroe in one direction and Acworth in another. That year the district paid pastors $8,277, and presiding elders $987. Atlanta Trinity church paid the highest salary in the conference at that time, $2,000, while Covington and Oxford charge paid presiding elders the largest sum, $200. Conference collections that year amounted to $2,078, home missions $3,620 and foreign missions $774. In 1871 the committee reported 64 churches in the Atlanta district, 24 of which were celled or plastered, and 31 of which had stoves. In the entire conference there were 608 churches, 177 of which were celled or plastered and 151 that had stoves, while 429 had neither ceiling or plastering and 455 had no stoves. Methodism under carpet buster rule was not living in a bed of roses or moving along in flowery ease.

Yet in those hard times of reconstruction Methodism in Atlanta flourished. In 1877, Rev. W. C. Dunlap reported 172 new converts at Payne's chapel in the year 1870, while Rev. W. A. Dodge reported 150 conversions that year at Evans' chapel. In the immediate Atlanta territory there were 875 conversions through missionary effort. In that year the old Wesley Chapel church assumed the name of First Methodist church.

Several of the Atlanta Methodist churches have a high rating among the nearly 20,000 churches of Southern Methodism in the matter of membership and salaries. Of the 100 churches with largest membership Druid Hills ranks 18th, with 2,350 members; St. Paul church ranks 30th, with 2,090 members; St. Mark church 44th, with 1,774 members; Decatur First church ranks 54th, with 1,676 members; Park Street church 60th, with 1,627 members; Grace church, 89th, with 1,598 members; Wesley Memorial church, 85th, with 1,435 members, and Athens First church, 94th, with 1,410 members.

Of the 100 largest churches in Southern Methodism Atlanta St. Mark church ranks 44th in the matter of salary, with $6,000; First church 51st, with $6,000; Druid Hills ranks 14th, with $7,561; St. Paul, 27th, with $3,532; St. Mark 29th, with 1,524; Athens First 48rd, with 1,375; Decatur First 45th, with 1,355; Park Street 60th, with 1,270; Wesley Memorial 98th, with 1,081; Grace 99th, with 1,080.

NEW ASSIGNMENTS TO BE MADE TODAY

ville, and A. C. Boatman, of Atlanta. Mr. Boatman sang "Evening Bells" at the conclusion of the memorial hour.

Mrs. Cunyus gave two numbers at different periods of the hour, both of which greatly moved the congregation. Her first number was "Face to Face." Her second number was "There Is No Night There."

Mrs. Cunyus solos at the conference sessions from year to year, especially at the memorial services, are always a welcome feature. Many times she has brought comfort to aching hearts, and inspired others with her consecrated voice and singing. The greatest demonstration ever to occur at conference as she sang occurred several years ago, when the session was held at Cartersville. Her selection that afternoon was "The Good Old-fashioned Way," and it was accompanied by an outpouring of spiritual power seldom witnessed.

In his discourse Sunday morning Bishop Beauchamp spoke of John, who was sent to bear witness of the Light, saying that himself was that Light, but urging the world to repent and look to the Christ.

The bishop gave emphasis to the necessity for a call from God before one could successfully be a messenger for Him, saying that, without this divine call, one would find the ministry a difficult and unhappy task. He said the call might come in the temple, the store, the field, and that it might come to laymen as well as to the most high God and faithfully bear His message.

Complete Obedience. He asserted that no man could ever become an Isaiah, a Paul, a John, a Moody or a Mott without this heavenly vision and complete obedience to it. The bishop feelingly referred to the closing hour of the conference, when hundreds of people rushed forward to touch the hand of a man who had received this call and vision, and who had been faithful to it throughout. He stated that he would be grieved to think that ever anyone should think training or vision, or who had been faithful to this call and vision.

He spoke of how messengers for God who had received this vision had proven mighty workers in the building of the nation. In Mexico, recently, when a temperance and prohibition reform would be inaugurated by the president, a Mexican Methodist preacher who had the confidence of the republic was called upon by the government to write into the school books the principles desired. Also he referred to Theodore Roosevelt's tribute to the Methodist pioneer preachers in the book, "Winning the West," in which Mr. Roosevelt said all through the west the pioneer Methodist preachers had taught such principles of justice and ethics as that nothing had been able to overturn them.

Statue to Asbury. The address of President Calvin Coolidge, delivered at the dedication of the equestrian statue of Francis Asbury in Washington, in which Mr. Coolidge said that for anyone to learn why a statue of a Methodist preacher is on government ground and maintained by the government he must but look around him and see where he had builded and the nation that had developed. Incidentally the bishop stated that the Asbury statue is the only statue of a preacher on any government ground.

Bishop Beauchamp, in addressing the class of deacons to be ordained, dwelt at great length on the Sender, the messenger, and the message to be delivered, pleading that the ministers would unvaryingly proclaim Christ Jesus, marveling at the miracles performed today under the labors of the man with that message. The bishop closed his discourse, remarking that Methodism today is still part of the church of God, that the golden age is the mighty now, and that Methodism has a great vision. He referred to the remark made some days ago by Dr. H. S. Bradley, for 20 years now a minister in New England, when he said his belief to be that, across the world, Methodism is the greatest single force for righteousness. Bishop Beauchamp prayed that this might be true, but was confident it could only be so as Methodism was true to the Most High God and faithfully bear His message.

Evening Sermon. In his sermon Sunday evening on the theme, "Jesus Christ the Way, the Truth and the Life," Dr. W. H. LaPrade, Sr., carried forward something of a similar line of thought presented by Bishop Beauchamp in the forenoon.

Dr. LaPrade said: "Facts are not the highest truths. Principles of truth and laws of operation lie back of facts. These principles and laws are made known either through investigation or by inspiration. The most essential truths are revealed, not discovered."

In his discourse he said that Jesus Christ was the ideal man of God, the Man-Truth, and lived as truth in example. He taught, not as the scribes or philosophers, but taught the essentials and was himself truth in teaching. Further, he said, Jesus was God as well as man. Jesus is the embodiment and source of all essential truth, and man has an insufficient conception until it is made manifest in Christ, in whom dwelt all the fullness of the Godhead bodily, Jesus Christ, then, was the God Truth.

Dr. LaPrade spoke of the power of truth to make free, asserting that truth will free from doctrinal error, from error in practice, free from the penalty of sin in justification, free from the fact of sin in regeneration, and free at last in His image, when believers shall be like Him.

Deacons ordained at the morning service were: J. A. Davis, McLowrey Elrod, J. E. Holbrook, G. G. Ramsey, P. H. Stokes, C. B. McKenzie, J. B. Tate, Jr.

Elders ordained at the night meeting were: H. W. Allison, J. L. Burch, W. L. Brackman, Z. H. Hayes, J. N. P. Manning, B. N. McHan, T. E.

Sherwood, D. G. Starnes, H. C. Stratton, V. F. Taylor, W. F. Walden, R. W. Wood, J. F. Young, J. L. Harrison, J. T. LeCroy, T. H. LeCroy. Vows were taken by L. B. Craft and D. H. Maxey, ministers coming from other churches.

The wedding bells were ringing merrily again Sunday in connection with the conference. At 6:45, just before the evening service should begin, and when the church auditorium was half-filled with people, a smiling couple, unannounced, came marching down the church aisle and called for Dr. Samuel T. Senter, the First church pastor.

Hastening to respond to the call, Dr. Senter was advised that the couple wanted to get married right then and there, without unnecessary delay. Dr. Senter happily complied with the unexpected request, and sent the newlyweds rejoicing on their way, amid a profusion of rice, and the good wishes of their friends.

Vines Lester Collier, of Fitzgerald, was the groom, while Miss Irene Williamson, of 682 Lexington avenue, S. W., Atlanta, was the bride.

Numbers of the visiting pastors preached Sunday in the city churches, and some of them had the pleasure of speaking again to their former congregations. In those instances the services were especially happy. Some of the men preaching to their former congregations were: Rev. G. L. Chantain, at Center Street; Rev. Marvin Williams, at Grace church; Rev. Henry B. Mays, at Inman Park church; Rev. G. M. Eakes, at the Decatur First church; Rev. Irbey Henderson, at College Park; Rev. C. W. Pruitt, at the Nellie Dodd Memorial; Rev. J. E. Ellis, at St. Paul church; Rev. H. C. Ciesler, and Dr. R. G. Smith, at the Marietta First church.

The conference will assemble this morning at 9 o'clock for the final session. The bishop and cabinet of presiding elders will hold a brief session to make final adjustments in the appointments, which will probably be read about 10:30 o'clock.

Before adjourning the conference will select the place of meeting for next year.

Matrimony in connection with this session of the conference must be somewhat infectious. Friday afternoon, Rev. H. C. Christian, of Augusta, and Mrs. C. J. Read, of Covington, plighted their troth.

No white rumor is freely spoken round conference circles that another preacher wedding is to take place this week. Emphasis is added to the matter by the fact that the groom-to-be is very eminent minister in the conference.

FERTILIZER MAKERS CONVENE HERE TODAY

National Fertilizer Association To Open Sessions at Biltmore.

Registration of fertilizer manufacturers from about thirty states begins this morning at the fifth annual southern convention of the National Fertilizer Association at the Biltmore hotel.

Attendance is expected by Charles J. Brand, executive secretary of Washington, D. C., to reach 400, about half of whom are from points in Georgia.

The convention formally opens tomorrow and will last through Wednesday.

Today's events are meetings of the soil improvement committee and the board of directors. The former will hear reports from its staff of agronomists relative to progress of soil improvement work in the south. These will be given by H. R. Smalley, Washington, director, and Ward H. Sachs, assistant director in charge of southern educational activities, with headquarters in Atlanta.

The principal new subject that will be considered by the board is a proposed campaign of help for fertilizer dealers. In a survey of more than 48,000 fertilizer consumers in 35 states it was found by the association that more than 60 per cent of the farmers interviewed get the most help concerning their fertilizer problems from their local dealers. There are about 90,000 dealers who handle fertilizer in the United States. The proposed campaign is intended to place in the dealers' hands the soundest information concerning the use of fertilizer, most of which comes from official state experiment stations, so the dealers will be better prepared to advise the farmers.

The board will discuss also a plan for obtaining observance of the industry's code of trade practices and trade rules that were adopted in a meeting sponsored by the federal trade commission and subsequently approved by the commission.

The first general session will be held Tuesday morning with the opening address to be given by the president, L. W. Rowell, of Chicago. He will be followed by Martin A. Morrison, attorney of the federal trade commission and a former member of congress from Indiana. His address is "Promoting Fair Trade Practices." Judge C. G. Wilson, of Richmond, will speak on "Obtaining Observance of Trade Practice Conference Rules and the Code of Trade Practices of

Baby Louise, Famed Saurian, Now Assistant To Wayward Boye, Notorious Grid Dopester

The above photo was snapped unawares, showing Wayward Boye and his new alligator-assistant, Louise, in an affectionate pose. Louise is whispering to Wayward that she thinks Georgia will beat Georgia Tech in the final game of the season at Georgia's new stadium at Athens.

BY HELEN AND OLIVE PARISH.
Louise, Howard Haire's baby alligator, who went on a hunger strike, and was recently fed with a silver spoon, is now official assistant to Wayward Boye, famous Constitution grid dopester.

Her fate is sealed; the die is cast; the Rubicon crossed; from this day henceforth Louise will busy herself doing all the brain-work for Wayward, who complains that his mind is weak from overtaxing it.

The unfortunate little reptile, now a member of the sports staff of this paper, has suffered many vicissitudes in her three months on earth, but is at last in sight of a comfortable haven. Her former owner turned her over to the Fertilizer Industry. He will be followed by Mr. Brand, who will submit a plan for handling violations.

The convention will then vote on the plan. Other addresses on the Tuesday program are to be given by Mr. Smalley on "Teamwork for Increased Fertilizer Consumption," and by Mr. Sachs on "Our Soil Improvement Work in the South."

Tuesday evening there will be an association dinner, with E. L. Robins, of Meridian, Miss., presiding. Addresses will be given by Mr. Brand, who will discuss "Sales Methods and Policies in Europe," and by E. St. Elmo Lewis, Detroit, who will talk on "Marketing Goods at a Profit." Mr. Lewis is a nationally known advertising man and merchandising expert.

Eleven Atlantans are on the convention committee. They are Harry B. Taylor, Lee Ashcraft, Troy G. Chastain, J. W. Cooper, Harry Harrison, J. Rucker McCarty, J. Russell Porter, W. E. Richards, T. C. Simmons, A. H. Sterne and J. V. Williams. The twelfth member is A. D. Strohman, of Savannah.

Wayward hopes, by his winning personality, to break down the wall of non-communication that Louise has set up between herself and the rest of the world. He plans to continue feeding the diminutive crocodile on raw eggs, with which Mr. Haire succeeded in interrupting her long fast.

Because Louise began her public career as a football fan, rooting for her home state, Florida, from a choice seat in Mr. Haire's pocket, it is believed that she has found her true vocation, having been a sports devotee since infancy. Her entry into the staff was marked by unfeigned rejoicing from all hands.

Despite the recognition of Louise's talents, an unfounded rumor has been circulated, purporting to reveal Mr. Danforth's real reason for "taking on" the little amphibian. It is alleged that he is secretly ambitious to throw Louise into the English channel, if he ever gets there.

Mr. Danforth has been overheard several times making the statement: "Woman's place is in the English channel." Perhaps he applies this doctrine to little Louise also. Pending public protests on this piece of gossip, Louise has been furnished safe quarters in a water-filled trough in the photography department, whence she will emerge periodically to advise Wayward.

Albany Laymen To Fight Sunday Shows in Court

ALBANY, Ga., Nov. 17.—(P)—Three motion picture theaters operated here today without interruption under auspices of the local post of the American Legion while church workers circulated a petition for an injunction against the Sunday shows.

The petition for an injunction followed employment of two lawyers, S. B. Lipitt and E. L. Smith, last Friday by a laymen's committee of the churches opposing Sunday movies. The petition, setting forth the allegation that the Sunday shows are illegal and therefore a nuisance that should be restrained, was presented to Sunday school, classes, church congregations, and in homes today. It was reported this afternoon that the petition already had approximately 150 signatures.

It is expected that the petition will be placed before Judge J. C. Gardner, of the Albany superior court, sometime this week. Ordinary procedure would call for a temporary injunction first with an order to the theater owners to show cause why it should not be made permanent.

Today is the third successive Sunday that motion picture theaters have been open here. On the two previous Sundays only two theaters were open, but a third joined in the showings today. On the first Sunday regular admissions were charged, but since admittance has been placed on a cash donation basis with the proceeds scheduled for charity. Large crowds attended the theaters on previous Sundays, but rain today apparently dampened the enthusiasm.

Six Baptist churches outside of Albany have joined in the opposition to the Sunday showings with resolutions declaring that Sunday movies are menacing to morals and would open the way to a general breakdown of "Sabbath observance." The local legion post, however, at a meeting last week, reaffirmed its stand in sponsoring the Sunday showings.

DRIVE TO RAISE $100,000 OPENS AT SAVANNAH

SAVANNAH, Ga., Nov. 17.—(P)—In order that there may be no mistakes about the importance of the occasion, the fourth annual drive to raise $100,000 to exploit Savannah, will be ushered in at 8:30 o'clock that morning by a great fanfare of noise.

The noise committee, just appointed by the chamber of commerce committee, will arrange for all steamboat, factory, and other kind of whistles in and about Savannah, to pipe up at that hour, while the guns of the artillery regiment will begin a booming salute of their own. Wednesday night all workers will meet for final instructions, 500 business men having already been enrolled for the drive.

Grade School Pupils Will Present Plays Here This Afternoon

Fourth, fifth and sixth grade pupils of Stullie Slaton, Formwalt, Milton, and Highland schools will present a series of short plays this afternoon beginning at 3 o'clock in the tea room at Rich's. It is announced by Miss Josie Stocumb, supervisor of the upper grades of Atlanta's elementary school department. The presentations will include Pilgrim stories, "Savannah's Auction," book summaries, "Moni, the Goat Boy," book reviews and book characters. Mary W. Postell, assistant superintendent in charge of elementary schools, has approved the program. The occasion is in observance of Good Book week.

SOUTHWEST ATLANTA FOR WIDER WHITEHALL

Civic Organizations Behind Movement To Relieve Traffic Congestion.

The regular monthly meeting of the West End Business Men's Association, to be held at Lee Street school auditorium tonight, will be the first of a series of community organization gatherings in southwest Atlanta for the purpose of obtaining immediate traffic relief toward the downtown shopping district. Widening and repaving of Whitehall Street has been singled out as the most urgent improvement, and, according to plans, interest will be centered on this project until completed.

"Any Whitehall Street property owner or others interested in the improvement is invited to meet with the association at 7:30 Monday night," said W. W. Whittington, president of the West End organization.

The South Fulton Civic Federation has called a special meeting upon request of the West End Business Men's Association for the purpose of promoting the Whitehall Street project. Dr. W. B. DuVall, president of the federation, has requested every member of the 28 community organizations to attend the mass meeting at Lee Street school on November 29.

Approval of both city and county authorities was given the Whitehall Street widening and repaving project nearly five years ago, it is pointed out, but property owners failed to agree upon terms of widening.

Pastor Gives Thanks

The mist, rain and general bad weather conditions which have prevailed for the past few days, playing havoc with the air mail schedule, lessened somewhat over the south Sunday, and all planes save the one from New York, arrived on time. The New York mail was trained in from Greensboro.

In an effort to popularize air travel, Transcontinental Air Transport, Inc., offered a substantial reduction of rates on Saturday, according to an announcement of T. R. Clement, general traffic manager. These rates, which will be effective during the entire winter, are almost 25 per cent under former fares.

It is now possible for a passenger to make the air-rail trip from New York to Los Angeles or vice versa for a cost of $267.43, which will include train, Pullman, and plane fares as well as all meals except those on the Pennsylvania train. The former rate was $338.10 plus the cost of all meals on the ground.

Giant Airplane DO-X Conducts Successful Radio Telephony Test

ALTENRHEIN, Switzerland, Nov. 17.—(P)—The giant airplane, DO-X, today conducted a successful radio telephony test in communication with the radio station at Stuttgart.

The airplane while in flight called the shipyard here which relayed the message over ordinary telephone wire to Stuttgart where the call was broadcast. It was picked up by all German stations and in Bern, Zurich, London and Vienna.

Persons on the airplane were even able to understand the return messages because special amplifiers overcame the roar of the 12 motors of the ship.

NATURAL GAS--

made and stored by Nature ages ago---contains more heat-making quality than any practical fuel found elsewhere in Nature, or even nearly reached by the ingenuity of men for general usage.

Since no other fuel approaches either manufactured or natural gas in convenience, cleanliness and high heat content, natural gas is most frequently compared with manufactured gas to illustrate its extraordinary fuel value. Natural gas contains nearly twice as much heat. The same amount will cook nearly twice as many meals, boil nearly twice as much water, keep the home warm nearly twice as long, or furnish nearly twice as much heat in industry as manufactured gas.

It is heat---which cooks meals, which makes homes comfortable. It is heat --- home makers or industrial concerns seek when they buy fuel. In whatever form the fuel---wood, oil, manufactured gas, coal or natural gas---its value is solely in the amount of heat which may be gotten from it.

So when Nature stored up natural gas for our use, even though she stored it hundreds of miles away, so much heat was packed into it that it is possible to bring it, even with tremendous engineering feats and the expenditure of vast sums of money---to Atlanta and make available to her citizens more heat, more compactly delivered and at a less cost for a given amount of heat than any other fuel.

TO ESCAPE GUARDS; BELIEVED DEAD

AUGUSTA, Ga., Nov. 17.—(AP)—A leap into the Savannah river in his mad dash for freedom, today was believed to have cost Fred Lee, 17, of New Jersey, his life.

The youth was serving a 20-day sentence in the city stockade for vagrancy, and Saturday he escaped guard while several prisoners were working around the stockade building.

A short distance away was the river, and on the other side, South Carolina. Fred Lee made for it, and without hesitating, plunged in. He last was seen in the middle of the stream struggling frantically to reach the South Carolina side.

He was for many years editor of Pravda, the official organ of the party, until removed early this year. He also had been a member of the executive committee of the party and a member of the presidium council of supreme economy.

Thousands Seek Miraculous Cures

Reports of cures following prayer at the grave of Rev. Patrick Power, at Malden, Mass., have drawn thousands to the spot. Upper left shows Santos Ferranova, 3, who could not walk and was restored when his parents took him to the grave. Upper right shows Fred Koponuk, 8, whose right arm has been paralyzed since birth. He is shown raising it. The bottom view is a part of the line of pilgrims which extends for blocks. The lower photo is a newly discovered photo of Rev. Father Patrick J. Power, who died 60 years ago.

Mayor-Elect of Boston
Among Throng Praying at Grave.

MALDEN, Mass., Nov. 17.—(AP)—The twentieth day of pilgrimage to the grave of Father Patrick Power in the Holy Cross cemetery saw a host of 250,000 persons gathered today, 90,000 of whom stood in line most of last night awaiting their turn to kneel at the spot where many miraculous cures are said to have occurred.

The pilgrims came from all over New England, many in bus loads. Malden Square, two miles from the cemetery, was jammed with pedestrians, motorists and parked cars. Tents sprang up in the vicinity, together with provision booths, giving the appearance of a "boom town."

Extra details of police patrolled the roads and kept the multitude moving. Today's crowd was by far the largest number of pilgrims so far to visit the tomb in one day. Among those at the cemetery was Mayor-elect James M. Curley, of Boston. Curley came to pray for his sick wife. He knelt at the tomb for a few minutes and afterward lingered for a time among the crippled, diseased and unfortunates who waited patiently for their turn to pray for spiritual succor. Later the mayor-elect made a second visit accompanied by Mrs. Curley. Side by side the two knelt and prayed in a drizzling rain, which set in at nightfall.

Way was made for a special ambulance from Holy Ghost hospital for incurables at Cambridge, which drove 20 cripples and invalids as near the tomb as possible. Those for whom doctors had given up hope for recovery were then lowered gently in stretchers so that they might touch the tomb.

Although thousands filed through the cemetery all night, followed by the huge multitude today, there were many who could not come in person nor send a friend or relative, who nevertheless sought miraculous aid. Many requests for handbills of earth from beside the tomb were received by Malden police and one woman wrote from Cotton Plant, Ark., asking that her letter be placed on the grave and then returned to her.

Roads leading to the cemetery and Malden square, two miles away, were jammed with pilgrims on foot, motorists and double lines of parked cars.

Cars, trains and buses brought a steady stream of pilgrims from the New England states, New York and the middle west.

Police said the man, who also was known under the aliases of "Harris" and "Parker," had been "taken for a ride."

CHINA IS DIFFICULT MISSIONARY FIELD,
SAYS DR. POTEAT

China offers a most difficult field for Christian missions because of the traditional ancestor worship which has been taught there for thousands of years. Dr. Edwin M. Poteat, former professor of ethics at Shanghai University, told the congregation of Second Baptist church, of which he is now pastor, Sunday night.

Dr. Poteat, preaching the fourth of a series of sermons on "Bringing Christians on Christ's Terms," asserted that the obligations of religion must take precedence over family ties. He explained that the Christian becomes, through his faith, a member of a spiritual family of which God is the Father.

Approach of Christmas Turns Thoughts to Gifts

At this time of the year thought leans to Christmas and New Year presents. There are some who may point out that Christmas is a little over five weeks away yet. That is true, but how quick those five weeks will go by for busy people. Many who wait until the last few hours to even begin to think what they will give to relatives and friends will rush to the stores to buy one thing for some one and in the rush and crowd have to home with something else.

Some again may say, "I am not going to buy any presents this year—can't afford it." That is all very well to say now, but when the Christmas spirit is in the air many people change their minds and join the last-day rush and buy a thing at any price, and in many cases give their loved ones the trouble of taking it back to change it for what they need most.

People, however, cannot buy what they want if their merchants do not carry something extra special for the holidays, and particularly is this true in articles suited for children. Merchants who have as yet not bought any toys for Christmas would do well to look over the new stock of the Milton Bradley Company, 285 Peachtree street, N. E.

This firm has in the wholesale department at this time the greatest assortment of toys and games in its many years in business. No matter what the toy wanted, be it for the one-year old baby or the high school boy or girl, the company has articles to suit all needs.

The visitor or buyer in looking over the mammoth stock will see samples by the dozens of toy picture books or little small stuffed toys and for the little tots, tea sets and dolls of every kind and description for the babies two or three years old, larger dolls, doll furniture of all kinds, combination games, Little Orphan Annie, Tonerville Trolley, Chester Gump, Schmitt, Moon Mullins, Babe Ruth, Barney Google, and many more of the same kind, for children a little larger.

This firm carries large stocks of play suits for boys and girls of all ages, sporting goods in all sizes and variety, especially suited for children, beads and puzzle sets, maps and scroll maps. In the mechanical toys there are many new and distinctive novelties that will interest the grown-ups as well as the children, any one of the large variety of trains or fabricated erections will interest "dad" as much as the boy he gave it to.

In school supplies this firm is a large dealer and makes in its large factory in a distant city many of the lines it carries. It ships books, school bags, crayons and paints, blackboards, pencils and educational story books to regular dealers almost every month in the year.

Milton Bradley Company was one of the largest dealers of the Y-Yo a few weeks ago and even now is shipping a 100 dozen a day. Two new novelties toys it is introducing at this time, expected to make a big hit, are a new metal toy that will run for 8 minutes and a small musical toy called a rolomonic. The latter is like a mouth organ and will play several popular tunes.

This firm carries a big stock of Christmas tree ornaments, silver cord, and wreaths. The local wholesale manager, H. A. Lawrence, says that he has prepared to take care of the large or small buyer living in this section of the country in any quantity.

SOUTH DESTINED TO FORGE AHEAD, LEADERS BELIEVE

Having just returned from an extensive business trip to New York and other eastern points, S. Guthman, president of the Atlanta Envelope Company, is outspoken in his comments on prospective business.

"Everywhere I went," declared Mr. Guthman, "I found business leaders watching the southeast with keen interest and not a little envy. They believe this section is destined to forge rapidly ahead, and with one accord proclaim good business ahead for this part of the country."

One of Mr. Guthman's objects in journeying east was to investigate first-hand recent developments in the envelope industry. "I was greatly surprised," said Mr. Guthman, "to discover that we have, in our Stewart avenue plant, practically every device and machine that makes for speed and economy in envelope manufacture. There is evidence of a new machine or two being brought out during the coming year; and of course if these materialize and prove practical, the Atlanta Envelope Company will install them."

It is interesting to note, despite the heavy envelope manufacturers' undertone in the case, that Mr. Guthman's organization weekly receives many orders from that section. However, the main efforts of this Atlanta plant are concentrated in the southern territory.

STOCK RECOVERY AIDS COTTON PRICE

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 17.—(AP)—Cotton has developed active trading and rather wide fluctuations during the past week. In the first days of the period prices tended decidedly downward in sympathy with the disorganized conditions of the stock market, and security values generally. This state of affairs induced considerable liquidation and discouraged speculation on the constructive side of the market, leaving the trade demand for the main sustaining influence and was largely on the scale downward.

The rather bullish character of the October textile statistics showing as they did that sales fell well below production, that stocks of goods had increased moderately and unfilled orders had fallen off, increased the disposition to liquidate. By Wednesday the January position had eased off 60 points from the close of the preceding Saturday, or practically $3.50 a bale.

The improvement in the stock market in the last portion of the week, coupled with the record-breaking October consumption by domestic mills, made public Thursday morning, brought shorts to cover freely owing to the improved technical position of the market and its apparently overvalued condition. On Saturday the market was stimulated by good Liverpool cables and the announced purpose of President Hoover to call a conference of financial, business and farming interests to bring about trade stabilization.

The market was stimulated during the last days of the week by the falling off in offerings of spot cotton in the interior due, it was claimed, to the growth of a holding movement stimulated by the liberal assistance offered producers by the farm loan board through the co-operative associations. Prices rallied fully 95 points, or not far from $5 a bale, in the closing days of the week.

The following shows the high, low and closing sales in the New Orleans futures market during the past week as compared with a year ago.

Atlanta Fireworks Company Says Business Is Extra Good

The Atlanta Fireworks Company, exclusive distributors for the famous unexcelled brand of fireworks, and also for the Victory Sparkler & Specialty Company, is now in its third year and reports that business up to the present so far surpasses business of the previous two years that it has had to add another warehouse to the present one.

The safety of the entire line, as far as the child and adult is concerned, makes it a very attractive feature for the parent, inasmuch as every means known to the pyrotechnic world has been utilized in eliminating all danger in the shooting of the unexcelled brand of fireworks.

Building Activity Revival Seen in Low Credit Rates

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—(AP)—Further business activity is being stimulated by renewed depression on the stock market last week, but encouraging stability remained a most notable characteristic of the business situation.

Particularly encouraging was the proposal of the administration to reduce both corporate and individual income taxes, which met with enthusiastic reception in legislative circles. Further reduction in the New York federal reserve discount rate to 4 1/2 per cent, coming only a fortnight after the drop from 5 to 5 per cent was regarded as foreshadowing a general reduction throughout the reserve system, and as an indication that credit will be made as cheap as possible, with reasonable safeguards against inflation.

Credit rates generally showed marked declines, and this was regarded as auguring a revival of business activity. The depression in building, which has lasted more than a year, has been one of the sore spots in the business situation. Opinion as to how long it may take for building activity to respond to the lower money rates varied widely, but the calling of a conference of business leaders by President Hoover, who at the same time suggested that public works and building projects generally had been held in abeyance by the recent credit stringency, was regarded as an indication that prompt stimulating action will be taken.

Steel mill operations continued to decline, with weakness developing in steel scrap prices and easing undertones in prices for finished products. Railways and farm implement manufacturers, however, continued to make large purchases, and building construction interests were active in the market. A large scale revival of building activity would aid not only the steel industry, but the wide assortment of lines supplying building materials, including metal trade goods.

CREDIT IMPROVED AND BONDS REACT

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—(AP)—Favorable developments bearing on the underlying credit structure during the past week have strengthened the bond market's economic foundations.

The use of credit for speculative purposes has undergone a record decline. Brokers' loans have fallen with an unprecedented rapidity—$2,500,000 in the past three weeks. Time money is quoted below 6 per cent for the first time in about a year and a half, contrasting with 9 1/4 per cent at the height of the summer credit stringency. Last week's bond financing totaled $45,761,000 against $16,866,000 in the previous week and $76,765,000 in the same week of 1924.

Although current supplies of high-grade bonds are small, due partly to the curtailment of new issues, the appearance of a considerable volume of bond financing is awaited in the near future. The general opinion is that such offerings will be made gradually in proportion to the market's powers of absorption.

Last week's bond financing totaled $45,761,000 against $16,866,000 in the previous week and $76,765,000 in the same week of 1924.

Fireworks date back to the 14th century when the Chinese used them for war purposes to confuse the enemy and it since has been handed down to the present generation as a patriotic symbol of American victory in the Revolutionary War.

This firm has on display at its office, 60-62 Gilmer street, or the warehouse, 153-155 Decatur street, all types of fireworks, and announces that it will show and explain the entire line of fireworks to any parent bringing their children to the office or warehouse.

Gabe A. Cohen, formerly of Dallas, Ga., who is well known all over the state in civic and fraternal circles, is at the head of this organization.

STOCKS ON CURB RALLY AFTER DROP

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—(AP)—Stocks on the 'curb market' turned upward in the final trading sessions last week, after another drastic decline carrying more than 300 issues down 2 to 100 points to the lowest levels of the year, or lower.

With vigorous upturn on the "big board" beginning on Thursday, however, a broad upward movement set in on the curb, which in general cancelled on one-half to three-quarters of the losses earlier in the week. Although the market was again on a three-hour daily trading schedule, and closed on Saturday, trading was again in overpowering volume, and government of the exchange followed the action of the New York Stock Exchange in curtailing the trading periods to the same schedule next week.

The rally was promoted by convincing evidence that the administration in Washington, leading bankers, and exchange officials had determined upon lines of action to stabilize the financial situation. The curb, as did the stock exchange, requested information from members which would disclose the extent and identity of professional bearish operations.

Among the high-priced issues, Great Atlantic & Pacific and Deere each dropped about 100 points, then regained more than half their losses. Aluminum Company of America dropped about 70 points and rallied 25 from the bottom. Middle West Utilities, old stock, dropped 60 points, and rallied 28.

Oils displayed a better tone than other groups, influenced by sharp curtailment of production in California. Cities Service dropped to 22 1/2, but closed Friday at 30, where it closed the previous week. Standard of Kansas, after dropping below 20, closed the week at 28, up 2 3/4 net under the stimulus of resumption of dividends. Standard of Indiana closed Friday, and Gulf was up 4 points, but Humble, Cuddeback and Vacuum showed net losses of about 3 and 5 points. Newmont was a feature of the mines, dropping nearly 50 points in response to rumors that it was undervalued. Holdings of Kennecott at the recent low levels, but it regained much of its loss on final denial of these reports.

Electric Bond & Share dropped about 25 points to near its low of 50, but rallied to close at 68 1/2. American Superpower dropped about 7 points, then reduced its loss to little more than a point. Associated Gas dropped 12 points, and regained its loss. Among the investment trusts, Goldman Sachs, Trans-America, and Lehman dropped several points, but closed only moderately lower.

Industrial generally still showed substantial losses at the end of the week, but E. W. Bliss was up about 2 points.

New Machine Solves Demand For Uniform Concrete Mix

"The demand for uniform concrete is becoming such a vital question with the contractors and engineers of the country," says W. C. Cate, general manager of W. C. Cate & Co., of 160 Walker street. "The Koehring Company, in the 10-8 Weigh-Mix, has given the first answer to the desire for control, by weighing, of materials entering concrete, on small projects as well as on large."

"The Weigh-Mix is an exact manufacturing plant exercising an accurate control of the aggregates entering into the manufacture of concrete, comparable to that obtained in the control of the ingredients entering the product in the manufacture of open-hearth steel. Accurate control of water and aggregates results in every batch and each part of every batch having the same quality and consistency and meeting the expectation of predetermined strength."

"Today wherever concrete is used, quality and strength are demanded. The small jobs, such as culverts, bridges and modest-sized building construction, require concrete of predetermined strength, just as it is demanded for the larger projects. These smaller jobs do not justify the setting up of expensive stationary plants for the proportioning of aggregates, yet the contractor must have equipment capable of delivering the same high quality concrete that is used in large structures."

"The Koehring Skip Weigh-Mix is designed to meet this demand. This unit is easily portable. It is ruggedly built to withstand the rough usage to which such equipment is normally subjected. And it will mix the accurately proportioned aggregates in the Koehring drum, producing at a reasonable plant cost, the highest grade, strongest, most uniform concrete possible."

"Each material, cement, sand and stone, is weighed separately. The aggregate is loaded from the ground either by shoveling into the skip or by use of wheelbarrows. The water is measured by an accurate volumetric water-measuring tank and is delivered through a valve without metal-to-metal contacts in the seat. The cement may be either weighed or measured by the bag, one bag of cement weighing 84 pounds net, being equivalent to one cubic foot."

"The mixer operator controls charging as well as mixing and discharging, all operations being centralized in his control. Speed in weighing is aided by use of the double-faced indicator dial, with a pointer in full view of the shoveler, inspector and operator."

THE BEASTS OF TARZAN No. 79

That ship! Riding the rippling water, so very near and yet so hideously far away. In silence Tarzan stood watching the vessel. He saw it turn toward the east and finally disappear around a headland on its way he knew not whither. Then he dropped upon his haunches and buried his face in his hands. It was after dusk that the three men returned to camp on the east shore... The night was hot and sultry.

No slightest breeze ruffled the foliage of the trees or rippled the mirror-like surface of the ocean. The whole world seemed as though hushed in slumber. Only a gentle swell rolled softly in upon the beach. Never had Tarzan seen the great Atlantic so ominously at peace. He stood at the edge of the beach gazing out to sea in the direction of the mainland, his mind filled with sorrow and hopelessness.

From the jungle close behind the camp came the uncanny wail of a panther. There was a familiar note in the weird cry, and almost mechanically Tarzan turned his head and answered. A moment later the tawny figure of Sheeta slunk out into the half light of the beach. There was no moon, but the sky was brilliant with stars. Silently the savage brute came to the side of the man, almost before Tarzan was aware of his presence.

It had been long now since Tarzan had seen his old fighting companion, but the soft purr was sufficient to assure him that the animal still recalled the bonds which had united them in the past. The ape-man's fingers fell upon the beast's coat as Sheeta rubbed against his muscular legs and he fondled and caressed the wicked head while his eyes searched the inky waters. Presently he started. WHAT WAS THAT?

BURGESS CHILDREN'S STORIES

FLIP BECOMES EXCITED.

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

'Tis always well to be discreet With strangers whom you chance to meet. —Flip the Terrier.

Unc' Billy Possum had spent a very comfortable night in a hole under the old stone wall on the edge of the Old Orchard. I suspect he dreamed of many chickens. Anyway, the first thing he thought of when he awoke was chicken. He awoke very early, as is the way of the little people of the Green Forest. Jolly, round, red Mr. Sun had only just begun his daily climb up in the blue, blue sky. Unc' Billy climbed up on the old stone wall and looked over toward the henyard of Farmer Brown's Boy. He was disappointed, was Unc' Billy Possum. Not a chicken was to be seen. You see, it was too early. Farmer Brown's Boy had not yet come to let them out.

Unc' Billy was undecided just what to do. He yawned two or three times and then went exploring along the old stone wall. He just could not resist the temptation to go over to that henyard. So he shuffled along over to the back of the henhouse. It was just then that Farmer Brown's Boy opened the backdoor and let Flip the Terrier out. Now, Flip was in the habit of running around the henyard and the barn, sometimes down in the Old Orchard, for a little exercise and to see what he could find. He had discovered that often during the night there would be visitors to the farmyard—little people who wear fur and travel about at night. Many a time he had smelled their scent and it always excited him.

This time Flip trotted along over to the henyard, sniffing here and sniffing there, as a dog will do. Finally he turned the corner of the henhouse and his quick eyes saw something moving. At first glance he thought it was some kind of a great rat with whitish, long and very untidy hair. With a sharp bark, Flip darted forward.

Of course, it was Unc' Billy Possum. Unc' Billy turned with surprising quickness and faced Flip. "Unc' Billy opened his mouth, drew back his lips and then showed a set of sharp teeth. With his hair standing up and those teeth showing, Unc' Billy looked very fierce. Flip stopped short. Unc' Billy snarled at him. He even took a step or two toward Flip, and Flip backed away hastily. Then Flip became excited. He began to bark. How he did bark! He would rush at Unc' Billy only to stop just before he reached him. He danced around him, now this side and now that side. Always Unc' Billy turned so as to face him. And always he presented that mouthful of sharp teeth.

Now, Flip is no coward. He wasn't really afraid, but this fellow was new to him. He still thought that Unc' Billy was some kind of a big rat, yet there was something about him different from any rats Flip had ever met. Furthermore, Flip's nose caught the scent of Unc' Billy and it was not that of the rat. So Flip was in doubt. It would be just as well to be a little careful.

"I don't know anything about this fellow," thought Flip, "but if I can once catch him from behind, I know I can kill him. Those teeth look sharp. Of course, my own teeth are sharp, but there is no use in giving him a chance to do the biting. If I can do it myself without getting hurt, I'll just try to scare him and make him run. If I can once make him run, I'll shake the life out of him."

So Flip continued to dance around Unc' Billy and make little rushes at him, and all the time he was growing more and more excited, and barking as only a small dog who is very much excited can bark. And all the time Unc' Billy continued to turn so as to always face Flip and to snarl and show his teeth. At the same time Unc' Billy was trying to get around the henhouse toward the chicken yard, where he could climb a post.

Styles by ANNETTE Paris—New York.

989 LEADS THE MODE.

Box-plaits lead the mode in frocks of semi-sports character so appropriate for all-day occasions. The style No. 989 sketched in black wool crepe with crew lace collar and cuffs is especially smart. The plaited section tapers to left hip and is finished with huge bow of the fabric, emphasizing flat hip-line which contrasts with all-around slight blousing of bodice.

A jabot frill pressed into plaits of self-fabric detracts from width. This charming slenderizing model is designed in sizes 16, 18, 20 years, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46 inches bust.

Midnight blue silk crepe with jabot frill of crepe in aquamarine shade which is also used to pipe edge of collar and cuffs is serviceable.

Hunter's green wool jersey self-trimmed with jabot of matching faille silk crepe is jaunty.

Tobacco brown faille silk crepe with jabot in yellow-beige crepe is sportive.

Printed rayon crepe, crepe de chine, canton crepe, feather weight woolen, covert cloth, crepe satin and printed sheer velvet suitable.

Pattern price 15 cents in stamps or coin (coin is preferred), wrap coin carefully.

We suggest that when you send for patterns, you inclose 10 cents additional for a copy of our new fall and winter fashion magazine.

6678 A PRETTY STYLE FOR A DRESS WITH BLOOMERS.

6678. Cotton prints are very desirable for this pleasing model. The dress is arranged in deep plaits below a yoke; the plaits forming a wide panel in back and front. The sleeve is comfortable, and is gathered at the wrist to a narrow band cuff. The neck is finished with a neat collar. The bloomers are in regulation style, with leg bands and waist bands. This pattern is cut in 4 sizes: 2, 4, 6 and 8 years. To make this model for a 6-year size will require 2 5/8 yards of 35-inch material. ## CHRISTIAN SUNDAY TO BE OBSERVED BY NEW TURKEY

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 17.—(P)—Leaders of the new Turkey have determined to start observance of the Sabbath on the Christian Sunday instead of on Friday, thus severing another of the ties which bind that nation to the Moslem world.

Followers of Mustafa Kemal Pasha have long envisaged this radical measure. It was postponed until the present, when the government is devoted to economic reforms, so officials could impress on the people the importance of the change in improving Turkey's relations with European markets.

The law substituting Sunday for Friday will come before the parliament at Ankara within the next few days. Meanwhile the official press has been paving the way with the argument that Turkey cannot afford to lose two business days weekly at a time when the nation is bending every effort to follow up political victories with economic triumphs.

In order to placate citizens who are religiously inclined but lack economic interests, the law probably will change the Turkish name for Sunday, "Pazar" to "Juma," meaning Friday.

The republic's navy will make its first visit abroad next June when the cruiser Yavuz, formerly the Goeben, and several destroyers will call at Malta.

Crazed by Pain Of Banana Eating, Man Shoots Three

PORT CHESTER, N. Y., Nov. 17. (United News.)—Crazed by the pain of an attack of indigestion after eating too many bananas, Frank di Leo, 40, railroad labor foreman, shot and killed his wife and another woman today, and seriously wounded a third.

Mrs. di Leo was killed instantly, and Mrs. Antonio Mezzuli, 40, mother of several children, died a short time later at a hospital here. Mrs. John Ambesi, 36, sister of Mrs. Mezzuli, is in a critical condition.

Police said di Leo ate a number of bananas last night and suffered intense pains today. Mrs. Mezzuli and Mrs. Ambesi, friends of the family, called at the house when they heard he was ill.

The stricken man demanded that he be removed to a hospital, police were told. The women, however, suggested that a doctor be called first.

Di Leo then leaped from his chair, grabbed a gun and shot all three women. He was captured as he was leaving the house.

THE GUMPS—FROM A LONESOME HEART

BY PAUL HERVEY FOXBLUE
SECTION

SYNOPSIS.

Tom Davies, football star of a small college, plays brilliantly in last game. After the battle Bruce Stevens, his roommate, asks him to go to the dance that night to meet a girl who'd been asked down to the college for him. Bruce declines, but the girl, Suzanne Branch, makes an instantaneous appeal to him. She tells Tom that she is engaged to marry a friend of her father's. After she leaves,

Tom writes to her. Before the Christmas holidays Tom meets her in New York.

Suzanne breaks her engagement to the other man when she and Tom realize they love

each other, and she invites Tom to her home to meet her family. Suzanne goes down to the college for commencement.

After graduation Tom's father gives him a small house at Stamford as a wedding present. Suzanne and Tom are married in November, and for the first few months are perfectly happy. One day Tom stays in town to have dinner with some college friends, and on his return Suzanne upbraid him. The storm blows over, and a few weeks later he promises to attend a wife fight with some of the boys. Suzanne creates a scene that Tom gives up the idea.

About a year after their marriage Bruce

Stevens returns from a trip to the south.

Tom is delighted to see him. He asks

Bruce to occupy the guest room at their house. They have dinner in town and home late. Suzanne is furious. She and Tom quarrel over Bruce's visit. She refuses to get up the next morning to meet him. The two men go into town together and Bruce tells Tom he will have to stay in town. Tom asks Bruce as a special favor to him to return with him to Stamford.

That evening on their return from New York, Suzanne greets them at the door.

She is cordial to Bruce.

which in her hand, danced while she ate, and he watched her and approved.

"By the way," she said, "the water's like ice, but I brought my bathing suit and one of Tom's. Are you game?"

"Yes. If you'll wait. If I jumped in now I'd sink like a stone."

He drank a final cup of coffee, lighted a cigaret, and sat, cross-legged, in the sunlight looking out at the boat that rocked idly on the ruffled water. He was aware of his profound contentment.

Turning his gaze, he saw that Suzanne's eyes were resting upon him with a rather personal expression.

"You don't really want to marry any one, do you?" she asked abruptly.

He puffed in the cigaret smoke, and said:

"Not yet."

"Haven't you ever been in love?"

"I've never been out of it."

"And yet you've never met any one you care to—to marry? I suppose the real reason is you've never liked any girl enough to take her seriously."

"No," he contradicted her. "I've never found any girl who was willing to take me seriously."

"What shall I be?"

"Be what you're really like. With me, anyway."

"That," said Bruce, "would take some finding out." He yawned cheerfully, and patted his stomach. "The swelling is going down. How about that swim?"

When she came out of the bushes

he looked at her and looked away and looked again. She had an almost perfect figure, with slim, long legs and a small waist.

They ran into the water together, first making a compact to do so and dashing in with hands interlocked. It was shivery stuff. But presently Suzanne shouted in a bubbly voice:

"O, it's wonderful. It's simply great! Come on out farther, you coward!"

He caught up to her, and she splashed him, and the water went into his eye, and she laughed and strangled

as he swam after her. But somehow when he had reached her, he did not try to duck her, but turned on his back and floated, looking up at the quick sky.

It had occurred to him she was a friendly little thing, but a trifle inexperienced, a little too innocent, perhaps.

They did not stay in long, but their skins glistened from the plunge when they had put their clothes on and rowed out to the sloop.

The wind was coming up out of the south—a warm, full wind. Bruce had tried to teach her how to sail. She volunteered now to help. The sail was up, the anchor weighed. He dashed back to the tiller, took it from her hands.

"Duck!" he shouted.

She did not seem to hear. The boom, swinging slowly around, pushed her unceremoniously and she fell into his arms.

It was the most natural thing in the world. He would have suspected nothing if she hadn't stayed where she was, the split part of a second too long.

Though she got on her feet laughing and moved away, an uncomfortable suspicion came over him. He met her eyes. She gazed back silently, breathing with a little effort. His suspicion hardened into certainty.

Pittsburgh, Notre Dame Stand Out In National Title Race

EACH ELEVEN RUNS UP FIE GRID RECORD

Teams Win With Consistency in Season Marked by Upsets.

By Alan Gould.

Associated Press Sports Editor.
CHICAGO, Nov. 17.—It requires no extended post-mortem today to discover that the main contenders for the national football championship of 1929 are Pittsburgh and Notre Dame, two of the finest and best equipped machines that the college gridirons have produced in many years.

These two mighty elevens do not meet this year, so that there may be no definite way to settle the argument of which strikes any pinfall in the final charge or two. Each has swept along so far undefeated, piling up records for consistent brilliancy in a season otherwise marked by a startling succession of upsets, the latest of which was Stanford's defeat by little Santa Clara on the Pacific coast.

In the greatest of all gridiron settings, Notre Dame turned back Southern California Saturday and stamped itself as a far more superior team than the score of 13 to 12 indicated, while a record throng of 123,000 spectators looked on from the wide open spaces of Soldier Field. At the same time, Pittsburgh smashed by a score of 34 to 13 the Carnegie team that had held Notre Dame three weeks ago to a single touchdown victory.

Pitt's eighth straight triumph, at the expense of its city rival, removed any lingering doubt about the superior power of the Panthers as the ubiquitous Toby Uanss again ran wild. So far as Carnegie is concerned, Pitt packs more punch than Notre Dame, but comparative scores are not always a reliable yardstick. Notre Dame's performance yesterday left an indelible impression on the greatest gathering in American football history.

The Hoosier's seventh triumph over formidable opposition, over the "breaks" and a hard fighting Trojan squad was something else beside a fine tonic for the health of Knute Rockne, guiding genius of the South Bend Cyclones. The magnetic "Rock" followed and guarded, after being confined three weeks with an ailing leg, returned to the side lines to see his charges smash the winning streak of the western football over eastern rivals.

ROCKNE PLEASED.
"Southern California put up a fine and courageous fight," said Rockne, from his hotel bed, after the game. "My boys did themselves proud." "Notre Dame, battling against up as fine an exhibition as I have ever seen," said a famous football coach who cast an eagle eye upon the proceedings for future reference. "In my opinion this is Rockne's greatest team, and perhaps the finest of all. It has everything, including a great quarterback in Frank E. Smith, the superlative line-men in Moynihan, the center, and Law and Cannon, the guards."

Notre Dame faces Northwestern at Evanston next Saturday and then the Army at the Yankee Stadium, November 30, with both of the latter outfits primed to toss everything they have at the Hoosiers in the hope of redeeming previous disappointments.

OTHER GOOD TEAMS.

Although Pitt and Notre Dame lead the big parade, there are at least a half dozen other great teams still in the campaign. Chief among them are Purdue, new champions of the Big Ten for the first time, and Georgia Tech, the middle western group, in the Southern conference; Texas Christian, in the southwest; Utah, the Rocky Mountain conference; and California, at the top of the Pacific Coast conference, and St. Mary's unscathed on the only team to hold California to so much as a tie.

Purdue turned back Iowa by 7 to 0, to clinch the Big Ten crown, while Michigan was upsetting Minnesota, 7-0, and Indiana winning in the last of the campaign. Chief among them are Purdue, new champions of the Big Ten for the first time, and Georgia Tech, the middle western group, in the Southern conference; Texas Christian, in the southwest; Utah, the Rocky Mountain conference; and California, at the top of the Pacific Coast conference, and St. Mary's unscathed on the only team to hold California to so much as a tie.

VOL VICTORY.

Tennessee eliminated Vanderbilt from the Southern conference race by a 13-0 victory, while Tulane kept pace by beating Sewanee 18 to 0. Alabama handed Georgia Tech the latter's fifth defeat of the season. Florida beat Clemson, and Maryland trounced V. P. I. with surprising ease.

Pittsburgh's place at the top in the east is now undisputed, as Cornell, the only other major team unbeaten up to Saturday, fell before Dartmouth's last period spurt, 18 to 14. Yale's conquest of Princeton, 13 to 0, without the services of Albie Booth sounded taps for the worst Tiger season under Bill Roper's regime. It also served warning for next Saturday on Harvard, which beat Holy Cross, 12 to 6. Bucknell's victory over Penn State, 27 to 6, was more surprising than Colgate's triumph over Syracuse, 21 to 0. Army rolled up 89 points against Dickinson, and Navy 61 on Wake Forest.

ELIMINATION.

Texas Christian eliminated Texas University, the 1928 Southwestern conference champions, from the race with a victory by 15 to 12. It was the first game in which the Texas football line has been crossed. Southern Methodist whalloped the Baylor Bears, 25 to 6, to stay in a contending position. The Big Six championship still is undecided as a result of Oklahoma's 13-13 tie with Nebraska, titleholders last year.

In the far west, California barely withstood the savage rush of the Washington Huskies to win, 7 to 0, and keep the conference lead. Washington, although losing the conference games, at least recovered much prestige by holding Stanford and California to single touchdowns victories in successive games. Stanford's passing attack overthrew Stanford, 13 to 7, in the biggest upset of the day. As a result California probably will be favored to hold the Cardinal next Saturday in the deciding game of the conference battle.

Two young men sat in the press box at Grant Field Saturday long after the whistle had blown, thinking solemn thoughts. The young men were Harry Mehre and Frank Thomas, Georgia coaches. Their Bulldogs play Alabama Thanksgiving Day and Georgia Tech December 7. They had seen plenty.

The Yellow Jackets had shown a stout defense but had perforce revealed no offensive maneuvers that might prove useful to the Bulldogs later on.

The Yellow Jackets would have been perfectly willing to work a few snappy plays for long gains but the machinery was clogged up with Alabama arms and legs. That, of course, was annoying to the Georgia coaches but it really did not matter much compared to the revelations vouchsafed by the turbulent Crimson Tide.

SURPRISED AT POWER.

The Georgia coaches were expecting to see Alabama show lots of drive but were not prepared for such man-handling line play as Alabama showed. And since the Tide emerged with no injuries, it may be expected that Georgia will have to face the same fire that leveled Tech.

"How did Tennessee and Vanderbilt beat that crowd?" Frank Thomas kept saying.

The Georgia Bulldog right now is confronted with the hardest Thanksgiving assignment of any of them not excepting Tennessee.

ACME OF BRUTE FORCE.

A year ago the Golden Tornado was crushing opposition with a display of power. They were hammering and sledging their opposition to pieces at the tackles and late in the game running wild inside and outside the ends.

But in retrospect the Golden Tornado never developed the pressure on the line that this Crimson Tide has shown.

The Tide belabored the Tennessee defense for yard after yard and failed to score through bad choice of plays at the goal line in one instance and because Tony Holm was out of the game in another instance. They ripped and tore at a Vanderbilt line all afternoon and failed to score probably because the Vanderbilt secondary defense played super-human defensive football.

But against a bigger Kentucky eleven and against a hard fighting Tech team, Alabama poured power into a simple attack and kept hanging to the ball.

To use Harry Mehre's comment after the Tide got through with Tech:

"This fancy tricky fast stuff is okay sometimes but a team with old-fashioned power and meanness will get somewhere every time."

TIDE RUSHED PASSER.

Alabama used the simplest, most effective defense against forward passing that can be devised. The Tide stormed through and rushed the passer until he either could not throw at all or was forced to chuck wildly.

This simple defense is impossible unless one packs a vast superiority in the rush line. The Golden Tornado used it last year, notably to beat Notre Dame and Alabama.

The plan if it can be worked relieves the defense of any great worry over covering eligible receivers.

MOORE IS FINE END.

If those who are baffled to find two all-Conference ends had seen Jim Moore, of Alabama, Saturday half the problem would have been solved. Moore was the perfect end in this one game at least. He made a few mistakes in the Vanderbilt game but his work here was flawless. He and Sington were riding herd on Stumpy Thomason, the safety man, all day.

TECH DEFENSE IS GOOD.

While the Yellow Jacket rush line was not effective on offense, the unit played great football on defense. Captain Rusk was a fine hustling backer-up. Hudson Edwards made his initial start at guard and proved he was worth more attention.

Fred Holt played a bang-up game at tackle opposite Vance Maree. Jones and Sid Williams smashed Alabama interference until they were worn out.

In going down under punts Jones eluded Alabama blockers cleverly.

It may be that after all the Yellow Jackets can get going and finish in some sort of shape. Auburn and Georgia remain to be met.

Pittsburgh Tops Nebraska Leads Teams in East Big Six Parade

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—(AP)—The ranks of the eastern undefeated were narrowed to just two teams in Saturday's football free-for-all—Pittsburgh, the heir-apparent to the sectional championship, and little Western Maryland, seeking whatever honors a perfect season can bring to an ambitious small college. Each has won eight straight. Following these are Davis and Elkins, Rider, Duquesne and Fordham, undefeated, but tied, and still very much in the race if anything should happen to the Panthers on Thanksgiving Day.

The most illustrious name removed from the undefeated list over the week-end was that of Cornell, which fell before a last-minute Dartmouth drive at Hanover, ending G. D. Dobbie's dream of a return to the pinnacle vacated six years ago.

In defeating Cornell, 15 to 14, Dartmouth not only retained the team scoring lead in the east, but also crowded to within one point of the 300 circle, which several elevens may gain.

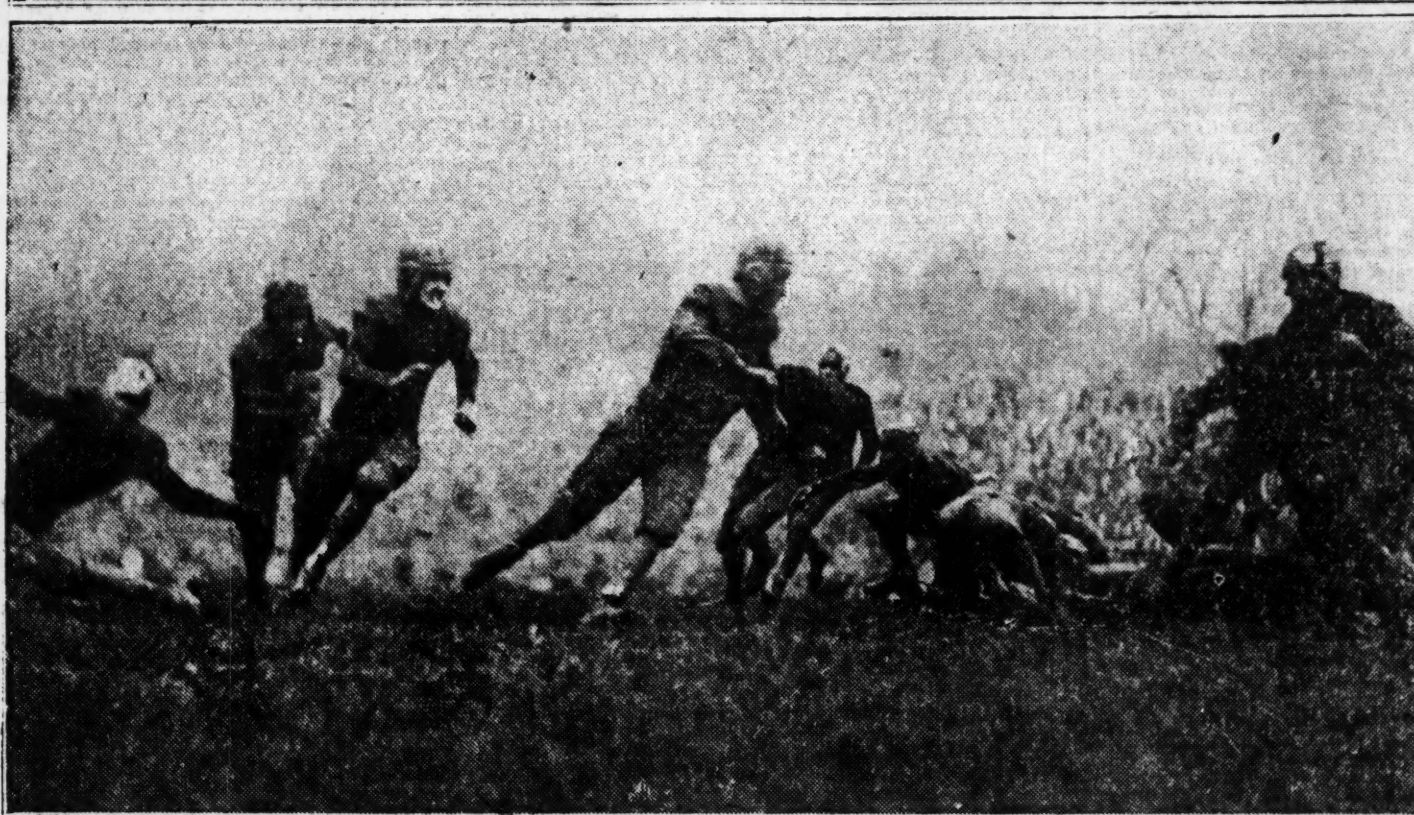

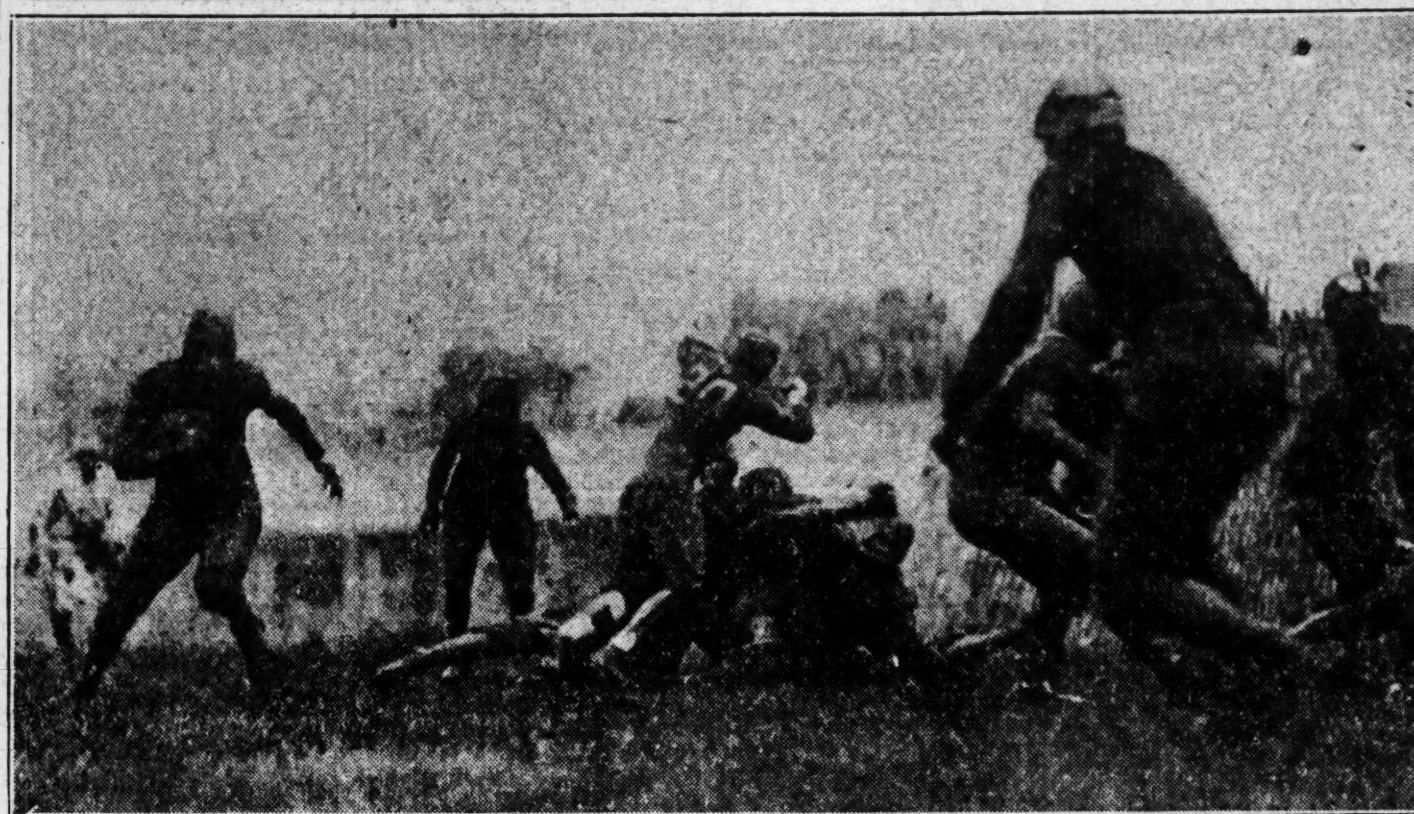

Other teams in the 200 class are: Colgate, 253; Abright, 258; Pittsburgh, 257; Syracuse, 253, and Army, 244.

Georgetown failed to get better than a scoreless tie with West Virginia, but preserved its fine defensive record of having yielded only one touchdown—the seven points which meant defeat by Western Maryland.

Purdue's Miner.

Alex Yunevich, latest sophomore sensation in Purdue football, hails from the same coal mining section of Indiana that developed Elmer Olsch, who starred at both Purdue and West Point a few years ago.

Hack and Mack, Touchdown Twins, in Action Against Vandy

At the top Buddy Hackman, Tennessee halfback and half of the "Hack and Mack" touchdown combination, is shown on a run which netted a half dozen yards in the Vanderbilt game at Knoxville Saturday. While not as brilliant as McEver, Hackman played good football. At the bottom Gene McEver is off for a 5-yard gain with Hackman and Disney running interference. The play was muddy and the footing uncertain but the Vol backfield had the most power and managed to score two touchdowns and win 13 to 0. The game was played at Knoxville.

TECH PREPARES FOR CAGE YEAR

Jacket Basketball Prospects Fine With Many Veterans Back.

By Herb Clark.

With sly innuendoes passing the rounds, rumors running their course in underground channels, the life and reign of old King Football is not for long. Another old favorite, Basketball, is being touted as his successor. And at the Flats of Georgia Tech, plans are already being made for the coronation of the pretender. The Yellow Jackets, such of them as have not found themselves occupied on the gridiron, have been working out in short afternoon practices for the past several days, answering the call of Sidney Goldin, captain of the 1929 combine.

With but the nucleus of the varsity squad at hand, most of the time has been spent in conditioning and locating the basket. On December 2 the Jackets are expected to be out in force. Coach Munderoff, free at that time from his duties with the freshman football team, has announced his intention of leaving the call then. Work will be the daily menu. The Jackets, running with some ease through their regular season last year, faltered with a complete falter when the conference tourney started in March. They dropped their first encounter—and spent the rest of the time looking on and wondering just how it had happened. Clemson had the secret, but was not disposed to reveal it.

FEW LOSSES.

Last season Munderoff was handicapped in that he was forced to make his team. The lack of veteran material was all too noticeable. This season he will have no such difficulties. George Lewis, slim and efficient forward, is the only member of the 1928 quintet who will not be back for the coming campaign. Graduation has truly touched the court squad with a gentle caress. Ineligibilities are not expected to do much harm. Mike Hudson, veteran center, is hard at work making up some studies, but Munderoff is firm in his conviction that the tall husky will be available for service.

And Munderoff has a good freshman squad coming up for use. The hole left by Lewis should be easily filled.

Vols Face Tough Job On Thanksgiving Day

By Ralph McGill.

Tulane's Green Wave is already in port with a cargo of victories and no prospects of defeat ahead. But for the Tennessee Volunteers, who Saturday afternoon lowered the Commodore flag to half mast, there remains Thanksgiving Day and the dark and bloody ground of Old Kaintucky.

While the Tennessee supporters were indulging in the baculic custom of counting the score Saturday afternoon in their 13-0 victory over the undefeated Vanderbilt eleven, the news came in of Old Kaintucky's rumbling triumph over the V. M. I. Cadets.

The Vols haven't been invited to California yet, but the more exuberant were shouting about California, and only a few muttered anything at all about Lexington, where the Wildcat seems to have become wild indeed. Any post-mortem of the Vanderbilt-Tennessee game must admit that the Vols were superior to the Commodores in all departments Saturday. The Commodores, after successive games with Alabama and Georgia Tech, offered a team that was as lifeless and as impotent as the one which the Jackets presented the week before. They never even threatened to penetrate the Vol defense.

SAME IF DRY.
Speculation as to what might have happened on a dry field is entirely idle and useless. Tennessee would have won by about the same score. The Commodores would have won no football game Saturday. The spark was gone. The Vols should have won by a greater score had it not been for rather stubborn individual efforts on the part of the Commodores and two excellent facings by Amos Leonard, the Commodore safety man, who nailed McEver twice when he was away and slogging through the mud to a 5-yard gain.

Closest to Marsters are Dowler, of Colgate, and Hinkle, of Bucknell, who scored two touchdowns apiece yesterday to remain in a deadlock for runner-up honors. Each now has 78 points.

Marsters Clings To Point Lead

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—(AP)—Propelled in a wheel-chair on the sidelines at Hanover, the stricken Al Marsters watched his Dartmouth eleven rally to defeat Cornell, 18 to 14 yesterday, and preserved his lead among individual eastern scorers for another week. Marsters has now reached a point where he has at least an even chance to retain the lead with his 108 points at the finish, even though his career came to an end with his injury in the Yale game two weeks ago.

Closest to Marsters are Dowler, of Colgate, and Hinkle, of Bucknell, who scored two touchdowns apiece yesterday to remain in a deadlock for runner-up honors. Each now has 78 points.

FIVE ELEVEN TO SEE ACTION

Florida-South Carolina Game Only One Within the Ranks.

There will be a lot of resting done in the Southern conference this week, only five teams getting in action, while the others rest for the Thanksgiving Day games.

Florida and South Carolina meet in the only conference contest of the day. The other three teams meet non-conference opponents. There is one inter-sectional contest, North Carolina State meeting Villanova at Philadelphia, with southern football practically sure to be repulsed. The Wolfpack is not so good this fall, heavy losses having proved an irreparable injury.

Duke takes on Wake Forest and Clemson will meet the Citadel eleven to close out the schedule for the day.

On Thursday following the quiet week there will be heavy firing on all fronts. The traditional enemies of football get going on that day. Auburn and Tech, Georgia and Alabama, Sewanee and Vanderbilt, Tennessee and Kentucky, Tulane and L. S. U., Mississippi and Mississippi Azzies, North Carolina and Virginia, and V. M. I. and V. P. I. meet in the chief games of the day.

The Vanderbilt-Sewanee game is the oldest of the traditional games, dating back more than 30 years. The Commodores are favorites this fall. Sewanee has won but twice in more than 20 years, but the game always draws well.

TULANE, VOLS GET TO WORK FOR HARD TILTS

Majority of Conference Teams Have No Games Before Thanksgiving.

By Ed Danforth.

Twenty conference football teams, leashed and twisted by the shock of defeat, will take a brief vacation today before plunging into preparation for the final games of a tumultuous campaign. One of the twenty-three that comprise the unwieldy, clumsy association, only two remain in the championship race.

Tulane's Green Wave, rolling smoothly through an easy schedule, will encounter little or no obstruction in Louisiana State University in the final game at Baton Rouge Thanksgiving Day. A clean slate seems certain for them.

Tennessee's Volunteers have yet to play a game with the University of Kentucky Thanksgiving, and that contest will be a difficult assignment for Coach Bob Neyland's eleven. In fact, for those Vols, the last game may be the hardest of all to win.

DUKE'S WINS.

Duke University has defeated two conference opponents, but the limited number of games Duke has played within the conference eliminates them from consideration as title champions. The infant member of the organization apparently could not arrange a representative schedule on short notice, and has played most of the season against non-member teams.

The championship, then, hinges on the outcome of the Kentucky-Tennessee battle at Lexington. Kentucky defeated Washington and Lee early in the season and later stopped the undefeated Clemson Tigers with a crushing score. The Wildcats lost a free-scoring battle to Alabama in Montgomery, but came back Saturday to hand the V. M. I. Cadets the short end of 23 to 12. V. M. I. previously had been defeated only by Florida; hence the showing of the Kentuckians is enhanced.

Tennessee defeated Alabama early in the season, and Saturday shut out Vanderbilt on a muddy field at Knoxville, 13 to 0. The Commodores went into the game undefeated in four conference engagements and had achieved the eminence of stopping Alabama and Georgia Tech on successive Saturdays. The Commodores found themselves a bit stale and were kept buried in the mire of their own 20-yard line all afternoon through the well-placed, rolling punts of Bobby Dodd, the Tennessee quarterback. This superiority in the placing of kicks gave Gene McEver, Tennessee's great running back, a chance to show his mud cleats and carve out a Tennessee victory.

A FEW "IFS."

If Tennessee loses to Kentucky, the Green Wave of Tulane will have none to dispute the title. If Tennessee defeats the Wildcats, the championship debate between New Orleans and Knoxville should ensue a long winter. Both teams possess and Tennessee possesses of extraordinary vocal powers. The argument should be almost as good as a post-season championship game.

Alabama's victory over Georgia Tech was generally predicted. The Crimson Tide, coming slowly to a peak of offensive power after injuries had handicapped their attack early in the season, overpowered Tech. The Yellow Jackets set up a well-ordered, hard-driving defense against the powerful line plunging of Holm and the strong running of Suther, and might have emerged with a 7-to-0 count had not Holm intercepted a pass in the last minute of play and sprinted for a touchdown. In the end, Alabama looks like the strongest team in the conference. Certainly on paper the Tide would be rated favorite over any opponent.

USUAL GAMES.

Most of the conference games Saturday ran true to form. Florida, another great team that is trailing with one defeat, came from behind to defeat Tennessee, 13 to 7, in a real thriller. Likewise the Kentucky eleven had to overcome a V. M. I. lead to win. Tulane's victory over Sewanee a hard-fought opponent, was a hard-fought through the mud to an 18-0 victory. The Wave apparently was off form, and fortunately had a weak opponent in hand.

V. P. I. SWAMPED.

Maryland showed that its tie game two weeks ago with Yale was no accident by sweeping V. P. I., 24 to 0. The Virginia Engineers had lost but one conference game previously. Duke won an exciting battle with North Carolina State, 19 to 12, and kept its narrow conference record clean. L. S. U., defeated in succession by Arkansas and Duke, came back smartly to trim Ole Miss, 13 to 6. W. & L. and Virginia scrambled around to a 13-13 tie.

Of the conference elevens that stepped outside the lodge to play, North Carolina took Davidson, 26 to 7; South Carolina, undefeated past Tennessee, with a safety, 2 to 0, and the Mississippi Aggies tied Millsaps, 0-0. Georgia played Auburn on Friday and won, 24 to 0. The victory squared Georgia's conference account with two victories and two defeats.

Nearly all these games were old fixtures, and in spite of bad weather, were heavily attended. Ten days remain for teams to prepare for Thanksgiving Day. Several extra games will be played December 7, notably the Tech-Georgia game and the Florida-Oregon inter-sectional clash in Miami.

Fils de la Lune Wins $4,000 Steeplechase

PARIS, Nov. 17.—(AP)—Fifty thousand spectators saw the strapping six-year-old, Fils de la Lune, run away from a field of 12 starters to win the Montgomery stakes, feature of the Grand Prix de la Lune, by seven lengths. Heugo was second and Le Balancier third.
